

Single PREVIEW

By

Rachel Benjamin

www.rachelbenjamin.org

PURPOSE

This monologue can be a fun way to introduce the topic of relationships. Whether used at a woman's conference, singles' retreat, or a relationship seminar, this monologue is meant to lighten the mood and to find humor within guy/girl interactions.

SUMMARY

Mallory is talking on the phone to a friend and is describing an embarrassing encounter with her latest crush.

CHARACTERS

Mallory

RUNNING TIME

5 Minutes

COSTUME / PROP IDEAS

Cell Phone

MALLORY

(on her phone)

Ok, this is what I don't get. I get all dressed up every Sunday for church. I dress up to go to work; most days I even wear earrings. I look nice when I go out to parties or when I hang out with friends on the weekends. But is he ever there? Do I ever see him out when I stop for Sunday brunch? No, of course not. But today on my way home from the Y, I decide to make a quick stop to pick up a prescription. And they're busy. Actually, they weren't that busy. They're just slow. Really slow, like waiting-in-the-post-office-line, slow. So there I am waiting. And who do I run into? I am in my gross gym shorts, the cut offs, sweating my brains out. I don't even want to talk about my hair. I mean, are you kidding me? Could the timing be any worse? He's standing there talking to me. Me. He's talking to me, and all I can think about is: I'm in shorts and I don't think I shaved my legs today.

...TO READ THE REST OF THE SCRIPT
PLEASE PURCHASE AT:
RACHELBENJAMIN.ORG